Rural Development May Mold Ag Future

Sherman Program Is Moving

By Bill Anderson

While people in many communities and geographical areas throughout the nation are salting money away as a bulwark against the floodwaters of a deepening depression, Sherman County farmers and townsmen are forging ahead with plans designed to pour sweat and money into improvement of local conditions.

Sherman—the only Nebraska county designated as a pilot area in the Rural Development Program—is looking to the future and the hope of shaping prosperity out of determination and cooperation among its people.

GEN. HOISINGTON

Credit To Hoisington For Lake

Brig. Gen. Perry M. Hoisington, whose transfer from Lincoln Air Force Base to Westover Air Force Base in Massachusetts was announced last week, has been described as "the man behind" the Bowling Lake project on the base.

The Bowling Lake project includes a man-made lake and dedicated several weeks ago after months of work and planning. It is cited as a major improvement to the base and an added attraction to life on the base.

Other major steps forward during Hoisington's command were:

- A first place in Strategic Air Command's ground safety program this year.
- A first place 1958 Information Service Office award in competition with all other SAC entries.
- A best mess hall recognition in stateside USAF, losing the top award to an Air Force installation in Japan.
- Completion of 400 government housing units at the base for LAFB families.
- A beginning toward the construction of an additional 600 Capehart housing units on the base.
- Completion of plans for the 1959 opening of the air base's Gen. Arnold Elementary School for air base children.

Brig. Gen. Hoisington will leave Lincoln July 21 for a week's temporary duty in Washington, D. C., and will arrive at Westover on Aug. 1. At Westover, he will command the 57th Air Division.

As yet, no replacement has been announced for Hoisington at LAFB.

WEST GERMAN INDUSTRY RIVALS ENGLAND—CONSUL

The economy of West Germany, torn to shreds by the devastating bombings of World War II, has expanded until today German industry rivals England in production, according to a consul of the German government.

Dr. Friedrich Baron Von Lupin, German consul general in Chicago, in Lincoln to speak Monday at the University of Nebraska, told The Star the German industrial index has risen from 100 in 1936 to 234 in 1957—more than double the production of pre-war years.

Baron Von Lupin, a member of the German Foreign Office in Bonn for 3 years, was assigned to the Chicago post in 1956. He served as a member of the Federal Ministry of Economics at Bonn from 1949-52; Finance Administration for the Western Zones, Frankfurt, from 1947-48; Bavarian Ministry of Economics at Munich from 1946-47; and was department head in Federation of German Industries, Berlin, from 1929-40, when he entered military service.

Dr. Von Lupin is accompanied by Erwin Boll, press and information officer for the Chicago office. Boll will conduct seminars through Friday, as Dr. Von Lupin will leave Lincoln Monday night.

Increase 62%

Dr. Von Lupin said real wages in West Germany have increased by 62% since 1948, due to industrial expansion and increased trade throughout Western Europe. The level of living has gone up remarkably with the recent economic upsurge.

The consul general will speak on present-day Germany at the Love Library auditorium Monday, from 2 to 3:15 p.m. Tuesday through Friday seminars will be held at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., room 415, Administration Hall, by Boll.

Boll was assigned to his present position in 1953. From 1948-53, he was news editor for the daily newspaper in Augsburg, Bavaria.

Both men were in Lincoln in May for a similar University of Nebraska convocation program.

CRASH SURVIVORS TELL OF BEATING OFF SHARKS

Honolulu (P) — The 3 survivors of the Air Force C124 which crashed in the Pacific early Friday returned here aboard the Aircraft Carrier Boxer and told of fighting off sharks while awaiting rescue.

"One of the sharks got a good hold on me and was shaking me," said Capt. Jonathan W. Brown, commander of the ill-fated plane.

Brown told a news conference how he and his 2 companions fought the sharks with their bare fists.

"We were pounding on the water and yelling and thrashing and kicking around," he said.

"I was beating on the shark's head with my fist. He finally let go. There were several of them around and they swam away."

Brown was bitten on the left shoulder, but apparently not seriously. He said he and the other two survivors had used shark repellent from their life jackets and said "that seemed to keep them away pretty well."

The trio was rescued by a helicopter from the Boxer nearly 12 hours after the huge plane went down with a runaway engine that flung its propeller through the fuselage.

The survivors are Capt. Brown, formerly of Sioux City, Iowa, who lives at Travis AFB; T.Sgt. James M. Phillips, Vacaville, Calif., and S.Sgt. James P. Van Der Ree of San Rafael, Calif.

The double-deck cargo plane, on a flight from Travis AFB in California to Tokyo, was pitched but sank soon afterward 200 miles northeast of Johnston Island.

HARVEST OF WHEAT DUE THIS WEEK

Lancaster County wheat, doused with more than 3 inches of rainfall over the weekend, should begin to pile up at local elevators by the middle of the week, according to County Extension Agent Cyril Bish.

Bish said only about 10% of the county's wheat crop has been harvested so far, and many fields are still too soft to permit harvesting. Two days of warm weather should enable a full-scale reaping operation to get underway in the county, he indicated.

A check with Lincoln elevators revealed plans are being made to handle the expected record crop. Some elevators reported a shortage of space, but arrangements were being made to ship the grain to larger storage facilities.

Bish said the wet weather may drop the test weight of this year's crop slightly and cause some bleaching, but the grain was not hurt to any great extent, he said.

PIERS BURN AT BOSTON

Boston (P) — A general alarm fire roared through 2 piers in Boston's waterfront Sunday night, consuming 2 piers and 2 warehouses in its angry, flaming march.

There were no immediate reports of injury.

Ablaze was the old Merchants and Miners Dock on Northern Avenue. The dock was only a few hundred yards north of Boston's South Railroad Station.

Six boats, apparently fishing craft, were destroyed between the 2 piers.

Miller made the comment after State Sen. Don McGinley, Ogallala attorney and rancher and Democratic nominee for the Fourth District post, had stated that labor has not offered him any financial assistance in his campaign "and I do not expect the offer to be made."

McGinley had made the statement in answer to earlier charges from Miller that his Democratic opponents "always get labor money."

Rep. Miller said that recent news indicates Nebraska local unions are appointing a political action committee.

'Not Miller'

"For your information," Miller told The Star, "they are not forming it to help A. L. Miller."

"This will be the ninth time that I have been a candidate in the general election," Miller said, adding that "the CIO has always opposed me—they have always supported my opponent."

Miller said there are 175 members of Congress today who received some money from the political action committee and "only 2 of them are Republicans."

"Any Democrat who comes to Congress," Miller charged, "must dance to the tune of Walter Reuther or he will certainly be ineffective. An example of that is Sen. Lausche of Ohio. At one time he had labor support but no more."

McGinley said that it was his impression that Miller earlier had been talking about labor's financial support and now was talking about endorsement.

"I think there's a difference," McGinley commented.

"I am not actively seeking labor union endorsement," McGinley said, adding that "if some of them do so act, it will be their own voluntary action."

"I know I have not made a 100% pro-labor stand on issues in the Legislature," McGinley declared.

"Labor interests will have to make their independent judgment of Fourth District candidates," he concluded.

University 'Hunters' Bag Game With Picks, Shovels

Hunting is reported "excellent" in western Nebraska, where University of Nebraska "hunters" are "bagging" sabre-tooth cats, jaguars, rhinoceroses, slots and camels.

The "big-game" quarry is being flushed out around Mullen and Ft. Robinson.

The "hunters," Dr. C. B. Schultz, director of the University of Nebraska State Museum, points out, are armed with picks and shovels and are collecting fossil remains of animals which lived in Nebraska many million years ago.

One party of fossil hunters is working the north prong of the Middle Loup River, about 16 miles northwest of Mullen. Dr. Schultz said they are opening old fossil beds in order to shed more light on past climatic conditions in Nebraska.

Ice Age Animals

Working the Pleistocene strata—ranging in age from several hundred thousand years to recent time—the team has uncovered remains of mammoths, slots, camels, horses and other animals which lived during the Ice Age.

Another party, according to Dr. Schultz, just completed a month's work in the Ft. Robinson area, where they found 3-toed horses, rhinoceroses, camels, and sabre-tooth cats, all living in a period from 35 million to 12 million years ago.

Monday, the Ft. Robinson party will move to the Bridgeport area, where it will begin working the Wildcat Ridge, concentrating on the period of 22 million to 12 million years ago. The team will work its way to the Wyoming line.

In addition, Dr. Schultz and Lloyd Tanner, co-ordinator of the field parties, last week supervised the collection of fossils, as an educational program, by 300 4-H clubbers attending the 4-H Conservation Camp at Chadron. The group found a large variety of fossils in the badlands near Chadron, Dr. Schultz said.

Adenauer Wins Test

Dusseldorf, Germany (P) — Complete returns Sunday night in a crucial state election gave West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer strong popular backing for his pro-western nuclear armament policies.

His Christian Democratic Party recaptured control of North Rhine-Westphalia, Germany's biggest and richest state, in an election viewed as a popular test of Adenauer's administration.

The party won 104 seats of parliament's 200. Two years ago it lost control to an alliance of Socialists and Free Democrats.

The campaign was fought primarily on national issues with the opposition socialists banking heavily that the voters would disapprove Adenauer's controversial decision to give West German NATO-aligned forces nuclear weapons.

Wheat Official From Finland Visits State

A Finnish government grain official will begin a 5-day stay in Nebraska Monday to observe wheat production, storage and marketing facilities.

He is Aimo Ilmarinen, director of the grain division of the government-owned grain storage organization, Helsinki, Finland.

He arrived in the United States June 2 and will leave New York for home July 30. While in Nebraska he will be accompanied by Robert Florell, director of marketing for the Nebraska Wheat Commission.

Already in his studies of the grain business, Ilmarinen has visited the agriculture department in Washington and toured the spring wheat region of Canada and the soft wheat region of the Pacific Northwest.

While in Nebraska, he will spend one day in Lincoln visiting the College of Agriculture, the state capitol and other points of interest.

He also will visit the Omaha Grain Exchange, a bakery and Boys Town in Omaha.

He will tour the south-central portion of the state to observe the wheat harvest, will visit the North Platte experiment station and inspect terminal and country elevator facilities and a flour mill.

Leslie F. Sheffield, chief of the Nebraska Wheat Commission who is in charge of tour arrangements in Nebraska, noted that Finland is a wheat-importing country. Hard red winter wheat varieties offer good possibilities for improving the quality of flour mixtures made from Finnish and foreign wheat, he said.

NO TRAINS, BUT LOTS OF FIREWORKS ... Over Chadron-Omaha Run

Officials of the Chicago and North Western Railroad in Chicago reaffirmed their order which stopped C & NW's 2 daily passenger trains to Chadron effective Sunday, despite an order to continue service from the State Railway Commission, filing of a contempt of court citation with the Nebraska Supreme Court, and protest group meetings.

"No train tonight" was the order at the Omaha Union Station Sunday night. The passenger train which left Chadron Sunday afternoon due in Omaha early Monday was the last one which Chicago and North Western planned to run on the Chadron-Omaha line.

Thursday the State Supreme Court had held that the railroad must be permitted to discontinue the last of its passenger trains between Omaha and Chadron.

But Saturday the State Railway Commission, which had first ruled in favor of discontinuance then ordered a rehearing, said no mandate had been received from the Supreme Court. Therefore, it wired the railroad, the trains should continue to run.

In Chicago, the railroad's headquarters said the trains would be discontinued anyway, the Associated Press reported.

An attorney for the Save-the-Trains Assn., Chauncey Barney of Lincoln, filed a contempt action against the railroad in the State Supreme Court.

Like the railway commission, he contended the court's order was not self-executing. He said the railway must wait for a mandate which would not come until 20 days after the ruling.

Barney said he filed the contempt action against the railroad Saturday in a last effort to prevent the cessation of the train schedules.

Barney pointed out that in discontinuing their service "the railroad is risking a contempt ruling that could cost more than $672 a day" which is the figure that C & NW say they are losing daily in running the trains.

The hearing on the contempt citation is set for 9 a. m., July 14, in the Nebraska Supreme Court.

At Bassett, city council and mayor met with interested citizens to discuss the C & NY Railroads' action in announced discontinuance of passenger trains 13 and 14.

Discussion centered on what the effect of the discontinuance would mean to the city and what could be done to help retain the service.

It was brought to the council that some of the citizens present felt the freight trains were traveling too fast for the condition of the track and roadbed through the city. The council was asked to investigate the possibility or regulating the speed of freight trains through the corporate limits.

The Little Man

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

When somebody makes a statement about the little man or the little guy, chances are he would have some difficulty explaining what he meant. He may have reference to an underprivileged individual, to someone beset with adversity, to someone who earns but little money or to any number of other people.

The term can imply both sympathy and understanding or can imply as easily, contempt. This is no effort to describe what we think the little man is or what his station in life might be. But several recent news stories have simply brought the term to mind. Perhaps they have done the same for you. The one story is a prominent one in the news today—the Bernard Goldfine and Sherman Adams fiasco. This Washington production is composed of many acts but there is one being presented that no one is watching.

Act Two Of The Tragic Comedy

Goldfine has admitted that gifts he has made to Adams were deducted from his income tax returns as business expenses. He explained this as being much like "the way some big companies deduct airplanes and automobiles and conventions, and some even deduct yachts, we deduct hotel bills in our business."

Now, there is nothing wrong in the world with a firm or individual taking the tax deductions legally entitled to it. But the Goldfine case is one which points out what a racket the gift-giving thing is and what other rackets can be worked in the big business end of taxes.

If the average wage earner in the United States could see the variety and amount of business deductions made on income tax returns, he would probably think it was impossible. The tax system is so complex that some people pay taxes all their lives on things that another individual may never pay a dime of taxes on.

Of course, business has the advantage since there are so many things that have become a part of the business world. It is nothing new to say that the biggest service Congress could perform would be a thorough examination and correction of the federal tax structure. But the Adams and Goldfine case does put a new emphasis on this need.

The other story we have in mind has also been around for quite some time. Nebraska's Rep. A. L. Miller talked about this subject just last week in the House in Washington. Miller noted what many people feel is an injustice in the Social Security program.

This is the regulation that limits the amount of money that can be earned by a Social Security recipient. According to Miller, a person who earns $1,200 a year at a job is ineligible for Social Security benefits. On the other hand, a person may have unlimited income from investments or other interests and draw full Social Security benefits.

Perhaps the justice of this can be argued in the incentive it provides for accumulation of wealth or merely in its protection of wealth. Perhaps it can be argued as an incentive for investment of funds and thus expansion of our economy. These things may be true, but they don't destroy the cold facts.

The cold facts are that Social Security in this instance can be a burden upon those who need it most and a blessing on those who need it the least. Once again, here is an opportunity for the Congress to do something of great benefit to the great mass of people in the United States. Both stories make us think that, somewhere along the line, the little man—whatever he is—needs a bigger voice in the nation's capital.

Burden Instead Of Help

The Last Chapter Is Written

Abreast of the news that the Navy muffed its sixth attempt to put a satellite into outer space via its Vanguard rocket (the score is now, 1 success to 5 failures) comes other news that the Army has restored Col. John C. Nickerson to full security clearance.

As a refresher it should be recalled that Col. Nickerson was subjected to court martial and punished when, while at Redstone Arsenal, he attempted to make issue outside of channels of the official clampdown on Army rocket tests. After he was disciplined, Russia put Sputnik I into the sky and during the worrisome period after that the Army got a go-ahead. Its outer space rocket proved successful.

This is not to disparage the Navy, or the Air Force, either, which are both still trying to win greater security for the country in outer space. But it is commentary on official thinking or lack of thinking that Col. Nickerson after a year in the dog-house now stands vindicated. After a fashion he won his point and obviously the military could not have been very convinced of his wrongdoing. The real loser was America which lost precious months in rocket progress, lost face in the world and had to give ground to Russian exploitation of its air victory.

It is a clear-minded country that asks what is said rather than who says it. In the light of the facts, Defense Secretary Wilson was dead wrong when he threw his weight behind the Air Force in the rocket field and failed to evaluate the true preparedness of the Army. If the country is to cover the cost of his error, it will be never more repeating it. The first step toward that is a realization that facts are more substantial than rank.

The Exploded Myth

New explosions come so fast in the Sherman Adams-Bernard Goldfine case that a word written one minute is out of date the next. But as the situation stands now, the myth of a perfect administration in Washington has been rudely exploded.

The testimony of Bernard Goldfine that gifts to Adams were deducted as a business expense on federal income returns was no credit to either man. The gifts could not have been friendly gestures and deductible items both at the same time. If claimed as a deductible item, they were an expense in connection with the furthering of the affairs of Goldfine's business.

The only way this benefit could come back to Goldfine was through favored treatment at the hands of federal regulatory agencies. Now, Goldfine is attempting to build a case on the grounds that the gift deductions were a mistake and the tax returns could be adjusted if the Internal Revenue Bureau feels that is proper.

All of which proves nothing except that Goldfine was buying influence and Adams sold it in one way or another. The President's restatement of the fact that he needs Adams is a discouraging one in that it appears as too much of a simple admission of lack of ability. The President is all but saying he could not get along without Adams.

It will be a long time before this episode is forgotten, regardless of its effect at the polls. It will be a long time before the American public elects to office again any man whose major qualifications are dedication of spirit and self-acclaimed morality. These things are essential and the question is not whether the President has them. The point is that they are only a starting place, important as they may be.

Blast That Changed The Country

A gigantic blast July 1 destroyed the water barrier and sent a tidal wave into a dam reservoir at Massena, New York. It was the engineers' way of fulfilling the final link in the St. Lawrence Tidewater Project, connecting the Atlantic ocean with the Great Lakes.

By July 4 the water level in the passage was sufficiently high to accommodate ocean vessels of 3,000 tons—14 foot draft. Less than a year from now the new waterway will be able to accommodate 25,000 ton ships of 27 foot draft.

The pressure of other concerns served to dull public attention and an improvement of such magnitude and significance would have, in other days, been accompanied by a considerable national celebration. There was a good deal more celebrating over the opening of the Erie Canal in the early days, and in the completion of the Panama canal at the turn of the century.

But the greatness of the new waterway cannot be measured by the magnitude and extent of its celebration. Its effect on the country ultimately will be profound because it will bring the seashore to the upper Middle West. It will be a different Middle West, a bigger one, and a different Atlantic seaboard, a changed one. The nation's economic and business centers will change and as they do the nation's thinking will change. The relationships between the regions will undergo alteration.

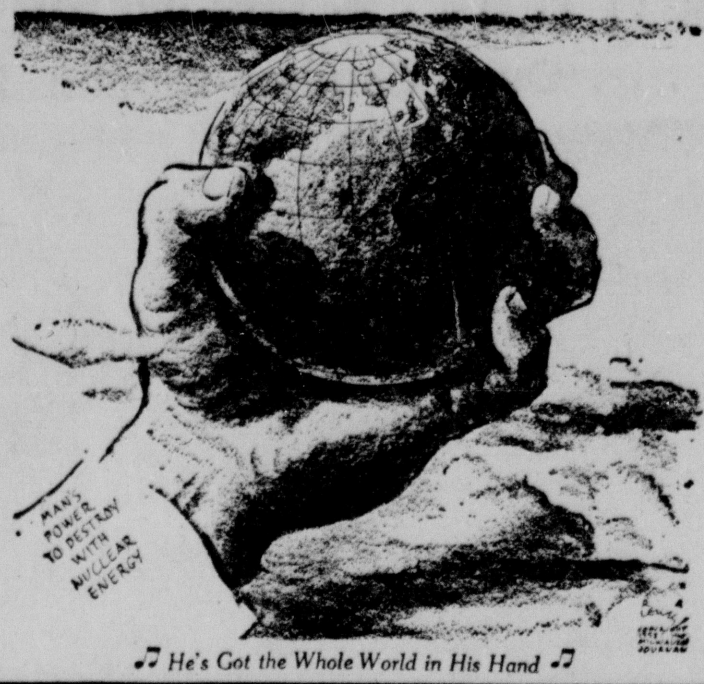

It will be interesting to watch and measure these changes in the next hundred years. A good prediction is that the traditional seaboard areas will not lose; the Middle West will grow greater, and the country will be by that much more benefitted.

'Taint No Justice

Sometimes you just can't win. Always, it seems, you have to be taking the bitter with the sweet. Now, the economists are backing us up in that thought. The bad times of 1958, they claim, were brought on by the good times of 1957 and preceding years. The good times were so good they brought on inflation which led to production too far beyond demand.

Finally Happened

According to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch the community of Afton, Illinois, held an anniversary parade and what do you know: The fire department's float caught fire and the firemen were unsuccessful in coping with it. The float burned to the pavement. We imagine the faces in the fire station are currently redder than the fire hydrants out in the street.

Russian Space Lead Increases

WASHINGTON —The public is getting so accustomed to hearing that Project Vanguard has failed to get off the ground again that they scarcely pay any attention to the routine announcement that "the second stage failed to ignite," with another 20-inch satellite going to the bottom of the Atlantic.

The latest failure of Vanguard, however, was the worst scientific defeat the United States has suffered in its none-too-happy race with the Soviet Union.

The small gold-plated "moon" which Navy scientists were trying to put in orbit was jam-packed with instruments with which they hoped to ferret out vital secrets of space. The Russians, by putting up three very large Sputniks, one carrying a dog and the last a veritable flying laboratory, have been learning vast amounts of information about outer space.

They have been tantalizing U.S. scientists by hinting a few things they have learned, but are not giving us any really significant data about cosmic rays, submicroscopic particles, etc. Especially they have not turned over any data concerning conditions that may affect the ability of human beings to live in outer space.

American scientists have been able to pick up the radio signals from Sputnik III and analyze them. But they do not know how the instruments inside the Sputnik are calibrated, therefore can reach few scientific conclusions. Reluctantly they have concluded the coded information by Sputnik III can be interpreted only by the Russians.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Russian Religion Baffling To West

MOSCOW — No aspect of this extraordinary society is more puzzling for the western observer than the status of religion. While it has been reported that something resembling a religious revival has been taking place, with more and more young people attending church and participating in church ceremonies, this would seem to be definitely an exaggeration. But in religion, as in so many other fields, Communism is rediscovering the past and adapting it to its own objectives.

A striking example of what has been taking place can be seen in Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, which was once the chief center for both the Christian and Jewish religions and was known as "The Russian Jerusalem." To visit the monastery of Lavra on the outskirts of Kiev is to have some idea of the transition taking place and of the remarkably different layers of development that exist side by side. Lavra, part of which dates back to the 11th century when its deep caves were occupied by famous hermit monks, was before the revolution one of the two or three holiest places in Russia. After the revolution, in the phase of aggressive atheism, electric lights were put in the caves and the mummified saints and other objects of religious veneration were made kind of chamber of horrors to illustrate the superstition and uselessness, from the Communist perspective, of religion.

Since the war part of Lavra, including the caves and one of the churches, has been restored to the church. The electric lights have gone and the devout as well as tourists and sightseers carry lighted

Unfortunately, the 20-inch ball that went into the ocean last week is the last of the fully instrumented IGY satellites the naval research laboratory had ready to send into outer space. They have another on which they've been working, but it won't be ready to go before October. They are desperately rushing work on others, but two years of patient work on instrumentation went into the drink when that second stage failed to fire.

If these satellite firings are successful, the American public will be kept superficially satisfied. But these satellites won't tell us the kind of vital data the Russians are now picking up from their Sputnik III.

The unpleasant truth is that we are falling farther behind every day in the race into space and that our only chance to catch up will be to try to send a human pilot out into space with the new hypersonic 3,600-mile-an-hour X-15 plane. The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics may send a volunteer pilot in the X-15 up to the frontier of space—80 miles up—as early as August. It will be a real risk because we have no idea what conditions prevail out there. But our scientists are getting desperate. They realize that the Russians may also be getting ready to put men into space and that, with their superior knowledge of conditions beyond the earth's atmosphere, they are in a position to design more efficient rockets and expand their superiority over the lagging United States.

Wonders Of The Universe

Who owns a fallen satellite? The country launching it or the country where it descends?

These questions, thrust upon an unprepared world, will become more cogent as time passes. Very quickly some precept of international law must be brought to bear. The rapid development of rocket and satellite technology demands it.

After about 890 revolutions of the earth, the third-stage rocket that launched Sputnik I plunged into the dense atmosphere on its way to earth. A brilliant object—brighter than the brightest of planets—was reported by observers in Maine, Alaska and California at about the time the rocket was moving across the Western Hemisphere. Scientists believe fragments of it survived but its place of fall is apparently unknown.

A week later, however, Soviet Premier Khrushchev asked the United States to return the rocket. Russian experts, he said, had calculated it fell in the U.S. Experts at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass., denied this. No more has been heard of the incident.

Had such an object fallen near civilization, it would have been a field day for citizens and the press, and could hardly have been kept secret.

Several years ago, a German V-2 fired from White Sands, N.M., went berserk and plowed into a hillside cemetery near Juarez, Mexico. Villagers set up stands and sold refreshments to the tourists, as well as "fragments" of the rocket looking suspiciously like fragments of junked automobiles.

What if Russia's rocket had fallen in the U.S.? Would we be legally obligated to return it? If one of our Vanguards or Explorers falls in a foreign country, must that country return it to us?

Andrew J. Haley, an eminent attorney and president of the International Astronautical Association, has some interesting views about this.

He holds with the ancient right of a sovereign state to own not only the land but also the atmosphere above it. International air travel today is beset with regulations and no plane of one country can safely fly over another without permission.

It would be legally reasonable, says Mr. Haley, for any nation to forbid passage of a satellite over its territory. No such injunction has been forthcoming but later, when satellites are equipped with cameras or TV eyes, there may be many touchy cases of infringement on this sovereign right. At the same time Haley apparently considers a fallen satellite the property of the country of its origin. While he doesn't go into the possibility of its causing damage upon impact, destroying life and property, this could happen.

When airplanes fall and produce damage, the airlines after all are held liable. Would not this apply to satellites?

On the other hand, when meteorites fall on buildings, the event is called an act of God. Does this apply here? Obviously the field needs exploring.

Dr. Charles P. Oliver, President of the American Meteor Society, agrees with Haley that the Russians legally own their satellites even after they have fallen on our soil. This writer disagrees.

In next week's article I will explain why.

READERS' QUESTIONS (Q) "What is the velocity of escape?"—H.B.

(A) The velocity of escape is that speed needed for an object to get beyond the earth's gravitational pull. Actually this pull is present even at an infinite distance but then it is so slight it can be ignored. The velocity of escape is tied to the mass of a body and its size. For the earth the velocity of escape is about seven miles a second. The moon, which is smaller than the earth, has an escape velocity of 1 1/2 miles a second. The sun, a much larger body than the earth, has an escape velocity of 382 miles a second. Copyright, 1958, Gen. Feat. Corp.

Awaiting The Moment

Lincoln, Neb. To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The Omaha Parking Authority is now no more. The Authority was created by the state legislature for building subterranean parking stalls around the Douglas county court house. After three years of casting about it failed to inspire the necessary financial support. It has, therefore, found itself in that pitfall of proposals that were unable to get themselves attached to the cuffs of the taxpayers.

Likewise here in Lincoln, we have the building authority proposal, overwhelmingly rejected by the voters on June 26, 1956. However, through a series of official flagellations this authority has been extended from time to time. Presumably, the powers that be expect to run it for the home plate when they think the voters are fast asleep.

Little Farmer Broke

Dorchester, Neb. To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I see by the Lincoln Star that the farmers are getting rich—that they get too much money for wheat. Yes, the hog farmers and company are getting rich but the ordinary farmer is going broke. The so-called strike at the terminal bins so the farmer cannot store his wheat is a strike forcing the small farmer to sell for $1.50 a bushel.

Who is going to get the 16 cents profit? The big boys. What will the Republicans do about this or the so-called farm organizations, our President and Mr. Benson. If the farmers stop the miller from importing wheat in any other way to raise their price of wheat, the President would send down the Army and shoot half of us down.

Let's all watch what the people of the United States do for the farmers. Or, are they going to let a few big boys tell them what to do? FRANK J. COCHRAN

Lincoln, Neb. To the editor of the Lincoln Star:

Attention—Mr. Goldfine An oriental rug charged off as business expense is hard to classify as gift or loan. If it is only loaned, then to report it makes no sense. The tax on gifts, each donor pays his own.

You charged against your business the rug that Adams got. So Adams must declare its value true as part of his earned income, or he's on another spot. You'll both be in a jam before you're through. Had you first called attention to your income tax mistake. Your frankness might inspire the Bureau's trust. But if they're forced to find them first, the errors that you make. THE DEMOCRATIC WAY The conversation now begins And will not end 'til someone wins.

We'll go to dinners to divide, All having friends on either side. And, what we think we'll freely say For that's the democratic way.

We'll wonder when we disagree Why others do not think as we. We'll hear them tell they wouldn't vote For one whose words we proudly quote. We'll think their minds have gone astray. But that's the democratic way.

At table we will argue long And each will say the other's wrong. A few ill-tempered may become, And some will sit with faces glum; All this, until election day, But that's the democratic way.

Army Seeks 'Unhampered' Vote In Algerian Referendum

Algiers (AP) — Gen. Raoul Salan, French commander in Algeria, called on his army to "win the battle of the referendum" for France.

He referred to the constitutional referendum next fall in which Algerians—both Moslems and Europeans—will vote for the first time on a single electoral list. It also will be the first time Moslem women have voted in Algeria.

Salan told a veterans organization banquet:

"We must do everything to assure that the greatest number of citizens take part in the vote and that the voting be unhampered by the rebels."

Some French officials believe the Algerian National Liberation Front (FLN) will step up its rebel activities to prevent voting. A poor turnout might indicate that the Moslems want no part in shaping France's future and insist on independence instead.

The referendum will concern governmental changes that Premier Charles de Gaulle, supported by Salan and other Algerian commanders, has promised.

Salan made his appeal in a lengthy address in which he reviewed the army's recent activities in Algeria.

Helen Herrmann, Bride

MRS. JOHN MARTIN SCHREIBER

At 4:30 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, July 6, the marriage of Miss Helen Sylvia Herrmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Arthur Herrmann of McCook, to Dr. John Martin Schreiber, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Schreiber of Lincoln, was solemnized at the Memorial Methodist Church in McCook. The service was read by the Rev. Adrian Edgar.

The three attendants, Mrs. Leroy Flaska of St. Helens, Ore., the matron of honor; Mrs. William Svoboda of Hebron, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Warren Kindler appeared in alike after-five frocks of chiffon over taffeta in the aquamarine shade. Their brow veils were held with cloches of tucked frock-matching chiffon, and each carried a crescent bouquet of pink roses.

William Svoboda of Hebron served as best man, and the ushers included Dr. John Nyberg of Lakewood, Colo.; Alan Anderson of Lincoln; Robert Hainey, Robert Morris, both of Chicago, and John Herrmann.

A gown of silk taffeta combined with embroidered silk organdy was chosen by the bride. The taffeta basque, designed with a portrait neckline which was contoured with applique of the embroidered organdy, and which slipped into brief sleeves, was completed with a hip cuff. The skirt of embroidered silk organdy was given added bouffancy with two wide panels of taffeta which extended from a back bow into a cathedral train. Triple folds of imported illusion fashioned the bridal veil.

Dr. Schreiber and his bride will reside at Montgomery, Ala., where the bridegroom has temporary duty with the Air Force for the next three months.

Mrs. Schreiber attended Monticello College, Alton, Ill., and is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Delta Gamma sorority.

Dr. Schreiber is a graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry, and has completed his internship with the Air Force at William Beaumont Army Hospital, El Paso, Tex. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity and Xi Psi Phi, dental fraternity.

Around The Town

—there's a new address this morning that will be of interest to almost everyone. Mr. and Mrs. Archie Furr have sold their home at 2720 So. 24th St. The new owners, who will be moving in on or about July 28, are Mr. and Mrs. Leon C. Donley and their family.

Mr. and Mrs. Furr, of course, will also be moving —and their address will be the Donleys' old one, 1737 B St.

—new names on the guest book are those of Mr. and Mrs. David Phipps and their very young son, David Neil, of Boulder, Colo.

Mr. and Mrs. Phipps and their son spent a few days as the house guests of Mr. Phipps' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Phipps before leaving on Sunday for Omaha where they will spend some time as the guests of Mrs. Phipps' family. They will return to Lincoln, however, for a longer visit with Mr. Phipps' parents before returning to Colorado.

Once back in Boulder the Phipps family will be concerned with the business of moving to Denver where Mr. Phipps will be a member of a law firm. A graduate of the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, Mr. Phipps was graduated from the University of Colorado College of law with highest honors early in June.

Mrs. Phipps is the former Paula Withey, Delta Gamma at Nebraska.

—home again are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherwood (Martha Lee Miller) who returned from Estes Park, Colo., where they had joined Mr. and Mrs. William Parchen of Denver for a week's holiday. And Mrs. Parchen, you may remember is the former Jean Thomas of Lincoln.

Miss Becky Sherwood entertained guests during the absence of her parents—they were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling F. Mutz.

—Announcement is made this morning of a new arrival to the bassinet brigade, Mr. and Mrs. Al Holbert (Sue Ramey) are the proud parents of a 8 lb. 2 oz. girl, born Sunday at Bryan Memorial Hospital. The just-as-proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Holbert of 6217 Sunrise Road and Mrs. Beth Ramey of 1631 J.

Hayrack Party Honors Visitors

One of the fun parties of the week end was the hayrack ride and picnic supper for which Mr. and Mrs. J. Gates Minnick were host and hostess on Saturday evening at the DuTeau farm. The honored guests were

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Volz of Denver who have been visiting at the home of Dr. Volz's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Volz.

Pressed into service as hayrack pilot during the ride through the countryside, was Mrs. Minnick's father, Alfred DuTeau, who returned them to the farm in plenty of time for the picnic supper.

The guests appear to be enjoying themselves, although the party has yet to start. All they are waiting for, it seems, is for Mrs. Minnick (center front) to "jump on", and the festivities will start.

Had Evening Service

MRS. WILLIAM M. R. HAMMELMANN

Arrangements of gladioli and lighted candles in candelabra festooned with greenery, appointed the chancel of the Lutheran Reformed Church for the wedding of Miss Loretta Lorene Loos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Loos, Jr., and William M.R. Hammelmann, son of Mrs. Karl Hammelmann and the late Rev. Hammelmann which took place on Sunday evening, July 6. The 7:30 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. J. H. Wacker, assisted by the Rev. Hans Poppe of Russell, Kan.

The four attendants, Miss Joyce Bernhardt, the maid of honor; Miss Unavesta Schmunk of Scottsbluff; Miss Ariene Loos and Mrs. Larry Cummins, the bridesmaids, wore alike frocks of dotted sheer over taffeta in the hyacinth tone. Miss Kathy Loos and Miss Jacqueline Hammelmann of Denver, Colo., lighted the candles, and the flower girls were Nancy Loos and Diane Goeschel. Jeffrey Scherer was the ringbearer and Tania Poppe of Russell, Kan., carried the Anniversaries candle.

John L. W. Hammelmann served his brother as best man, and seating the guests were Stanley Loos, Peter Reifschneider and Francis Millet.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of Chantilly lace over satin. The long-sleeved bodice was smoothly sculptured and designed with softly rounded neckline that created a starburst pattern jeweled with iridescent paillettes. The slender waist was sashed with satin fashioned in a back bow from which panels extended to the ballerina hem length of the wide skirt.

Upon their return from a honeymoon trip Mr. Hammelmann and his bride will reside at 2500 No. 56th St.

The bride is a June graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University where she is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta and Psi Chi. She now is a member of the Lincoln public schools faculty. Mr. Hammelmann is a senior at Wesleyan University where he is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary.

Miss Smrha is nutritionist with the Nebraska Public Health Service and is supervisor of the summer camp for diabetic children near Plattsmouth.

Other state officers attending will be Mrs. A. W. Sorensen, Fremont, third vice president; Mrs. William Nichol, Jr., Scottsbluff, secretary; and Mrs. Ralph Beechner, Lincoln, treasurer.

Bride At Early July Wedding

MRS. PAUL E. CLAUS

Summer blossoms and lighted candles appointed the chancel of the Concordia Lutheran Church in Clearwater where the wedding of Miss

Delores Marie Tagel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tagel of Ewing, and Paul E. Clauson of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Claus of Lincoln, took place on Saturday evening, July 5. The Rev. Mr. Braunsreuther solemnized the 7:30 o'clock ceremony.

The attendants, all sisters of the bride, included Mrs. Byron A. Johnson of Lincoln, the matron of honor; Miss Donna Mae Tagel, also of Lincoln, and Mrs. Harold Spahn of Ewing. Their frocks of white eyelet were designed with fitted bodices and wide skirts, and their flowers were yellow and white daisies. Miss Janne Tagel and Diann Schindler lighted the candles, and the flower girl was Brenda Sue Schindler. LaVern Spahn was the ringbearer.

William McDonald of Lincoln, served as best man, and the ushers were Byron A. Johnson and Raymond Salafia, both of Lincoln.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of imported Chantilly lace and tulle over satin. The long-sleeved bodice, its sabrina neckline patterned with iridescent sequins, narrowed to a slender waist beneath which the bouffant skirt of tulle was dotted with sequin applique and panelled with lace.

Upon their return from a short honeymoon trip Mr. Claus and his bride will reside at 5000 Starr St., Lincoln.

Mr. Claus attended Nebraska Wesleyan University where he is a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

SUBURBIA

As you might anticipate with the holiday week end just passed, we have much news concerning visitors and vacation trips, so without further ado—

COTNER TERRACE

Would venture to say that Mr. and Mrs. George Hametz and their daughter, Charlene, have an enjoyable trip ahead of them these next three weeks. The family left Cotner Terrace on Saturday for a tour of Canada, then to Niagara Falls, Buffalo, N.Y., and Hazleton, Pa., before their return home.

While in Canada, where he formerly played professional baseball, Mr. Hametz plans to visit some former teammates, and in Hazleton the family will visit Mr. Hametz' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hametz.

Hear that Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Hermann spent the 4th of July holiday in Wilber as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Zlab.

Capt. and Mrs. Gordon Ware had as their house guests for the week end Mr. and Mrs. Merlyn C. Rue of Westfield, N.J.

Incidentally, Mrs. Ware returned to Lincoln last week after a two-week vacation in Wisconsin. She was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Ludwig at their home in Madison.

Returning home last Tuesday after a two-week holiday trip were Lt. and Mrs. Larry Garrett and their twin boys, Ricky and Nicky. The foursome visited members of Mrs. Garrett's family, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lavigne of Wichita, Kan., and Mr. and Mrs. George Meade of Derby, Kan., and Lt. Garrett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Garrett at their home in Ames, Ia.

Entertaining at a family dinner on Thursday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Byron H. Mason. Included among the guests were Mrs. Mason's mother, Mrs. R. C. Gore, her aunts, Mrs. K. K. Neligh of San Diego, Calif., who was visiting in Lincoln, and Mrs. R. L. Jobs, and Miss Dorthea Gore.

NORTHEAST HEIGHTS

Undersand that Mr. and Mrs. Richard Abel and their children, Robert, John, Dorothy and Gertrude, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., arrived in Northeast Heights on Thursday for a week-end visit at the home of Mrs. Abel's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Collins.

Mention of Dr. and Mrs. Collins reminds us that they returned to their suburban home last week from a ten-day vacation spent in San Francisco.

MRS. TERRENCE CHARLES WRIGHT

Spreading arrangements of yellow gladioli and greenery appointed the chancel of St. Paul Methodist Church in Omaha on Sunday afternoon, July 6, for the wedding of Miss Karen Louise Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Westphal Nelson of Omaha, and Terrence Charles Wright, son of the Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Wright of Lincoln. The 3 o'clock service was read by the Rev. Mr. Wright, father of the bridegroom and associate minister of Trinity Methodist Church of Lincoln, assisted by Dr. Alva Clark of Omaha.

Mrs. R. A. Conser of Omaha was her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Tanya Moore, Minneapolis, Minn., and Miss Patrice Nelson, Omaha, sister of the bride. The attendants wore alike frocks of brocaded cotton in the beige tone and carried bouquets of yellow Fujii chrysanthemums. Miss Terilee Wallingford and Miss Susan Rippey, nieces of the bridegroom, were the flower girls, and the ringbearer was Thomas Socolofsky, Manhattan, Kan., nephew of Mr. Wright.

Serving his brother as best man was Lt. Col. R. J. Wright of Atwater, Calif., and the corps of ushers included Charles Bagby, Elroy Nelson and Robert Farquhar, Omaha, and Robert Yanike, Holdrege.

Dear Abby . . .

Sober But Not Subdued! Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I had the same trouble as lots of women who write you and I did what you tell them to do. I got my husband to join A.A. Well, he is sober and has been for two years, but he is practically living with a woman alcoholic who he met through A.A. He says they have more in common because they are both A.A. Those A.A.'s think all that matters is sobriety, but I can tell you my husband does everything ELSE but drink. He lies and cheats and can't be trusted. You won't print this I'll bet because you don't have an answer for it.

RITA S.
DEAR RITA: "A.A." can't give a man character he never had. Neither does it promise to cure his other illnesses. If your husband is sober, at least half the battle is won. Now, talk to a clergyman.

Attendants

Miss Louise Klima of Milligan, Delta Gamma at the University of Nebraska, has announced the members of her bridal party for her marriage to Kenneth Niles Barnard of Lincoln.

Miss Marlene Kuhlman of Denver will attend Miss Klima as maid of honor, and the bridesmatron will be Mrs. Roger Barnard. The bridesmaids will be Miss Ann Percival of Scottsbluff, Miss Ann Barnard, sister of the bridegroom-elect, and Miss Judy Mueller, both of Lincoln.

Lighting the candles for the afternoon service, which will take place on Sunday, Aug. 3, at Trinity Methodist Church, will be Miss Elaine Unterseher and Mrs. Richard Brouillette.

Allen Barnard will serve his brother as best man, and the corps of ushers will include Roger Hall, Omaha; Jay Schnoor, McCook; Joe Scott, Central City; Ray Crawl, Jerry Morris and Larry Morris, Lincoln.

Courtesies

In pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Edith Leikam, whose betrothal to Roy Oestmann was announced recently, Mrs. Bob Johnson will be hostess on Tuesday, July 8. Twenty-five guests have been invited to a dessert supper to be held at the home of Mrs. Clarence King, and a miscellaneous shower will be presented to the honoree.

Also honoring Miss Leikam, who has chosen Saturday, July 26, as the date for her wedding, were Mrs. George Harris, Mrs. Clarence King and Mrs. Edward Leikam who were co-hostesses to 30 guests at a kitchen shower last Tuesday evening.

DEAR ABBY: I have been living with this man who is a painter for nine years. We have three children, but I feel like I should be living with this other man who works on the railroad because he is due for a promotion. I know I would make him a better wife than the one he is married to. They have been married for 13 years and have four children. We have been seeing each other every free chance we get but he says he would never leave his wife and children. Do you think I am wrong in wanting this railroad man and not the painter? The railroad's wife is always sick and he laid out a small fortune in doctor bills and medicine. I am very healthy.

NEED A CHANGE
DEAR NEED: You need a lot more than a change, lady. You need to be told something about the moral code under which respectable people live. Leave married men alone and use that extra energy to persuade your painter to decorate a marriage license.

DEAR ABBY: I will start out by saying that I am just as respectable as the next one and the fact that I am a divorced woman should not automatically make me a second-class citizen. I have been keeping company with a young man who knew when we met that I was divorced. We went around together for almost two years and I had every reason to believe that he would marry me. Now he tells me when he takes me to meet his mother I should tell her a story about losing my husband in an accident. I refuse to lie to his mother and am beginning to wonder if this fellow is worth breaking my heart over. What would you do? HEART-BROKEN

DEAR H.B.: A man who is "afraid" to tell his mother the truth is not mature enough for marriage. Find yourself a more adult companion.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BASEBALL WIDOW: Don't let him throw you a curve—give it to him right off the bat.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Stan Delaplaine's POSTCARD

Do you know anybody named Sandra? If so, enter her in a beauty contest immediately. Your reliable handicapper has figured out that Sandras will run high in the money this beautiful season.

Summer is certainly here. I can tell the arrival of summer by the onset of beauty contests and oak moths.

We had 25 entries in our Miss State contest. Four were named Sandra.

Wire photos are beginning to clog the daily schedule, most of them showing other winning girls.

I note a number of dreamy-eyed dreamboats named Darlene. That is another good name this year.

Most of the beauty contest ladies of this year got themselves named around 1940.

I cannot for the life of me recall any personalities named Sandra or Darlene around that time. Must have been though. New children are usually named by their mamas. And their mamas usually name them out of novels or movies.

There are a lot of gentlemen around named Francis X.

If you run into a Francis X, he will be about 50. And his mama used to swoon at the matinee over a hunk of jutting chin named Francis X. Bushman.

Must have been a novel or two about Sandra or Darlene.

Since things were pretty quiet around 1940, I imagine Sandra and Darlene were probably misunderstood housewives. They got married, but somehow they felt they should really have gone to Paris and studied art.

TOVARSCKI
The Distinguished Name in

well, you know how it goes.

I just missed being named William S. Hart. If I had had my way I WOULD have been named William S. Hart.

I had nothing to say about my name. But as I grew, I regretted it bitterly.

William S. Hart was the first movie cowboy. I saw him every Saturday afternoon if I could. Gad! I would have given anything to be called W. S. Hart!

A short time ago I went down to Disneyland in Southern California. And there on the screen in the old-time movie theater, they were playing William S. Hart in an old-time movie.

He had the long, horsey face just as I remembered. And he scrunched up his face with emotion as he watched the dance hall girl bang away on the dance hall piano.

I used to scrunch up my face in sympathy. And found myself doing it again these many years later at Disneyland.

Mother should have waited until I grew up to where you could see me scrunch my face. She would have known then what to name me: William S. What else?

I have had little to do with naming my own children—my suggestion of General George Custer was received with chilly silence.

I think we should let children grow a little and pick their own names.

I recall my daughter tearfully asking to be renamed Lassie, after seeing the famous movie dog. (A couple of weeks later I had to address her as Tonto after some comic strip Indian.)

Once I went to school with a boy named Speedball. His father named him after a pitch made famous by Walter Johnson. Another boy I knew in school was named for a famous evangelist. We called him "Revrund."

It would probably be better if we just named our children by numbers. Then let them pick out different names as they go along.

There will be a time when my boy will wish he was called General Custer.

And how can I tell him that I didn't have courage to make a stand when the named dropper dropped in?

MILWAUKEE ENDS LOSING STRING

Braves Shut Out Pirates On 4 Hits

Milwaukee (P) — Joey Jay blanked the Pittsburgh Pirates on 4 hits, and Wes Covington drove in both runs with a home run and a single as the Milwaukee Braves broke their 5 game losing streak with a 2-0 victory Sunday. Jay threw only 94 pitches to win a tight duel from Curt Raydon.

Jay, who had allowed only five runs in his 4 previous starts but had won only 1 because of lack of hitting support, struck out 9 Pirates and did not issue a walk. He was in trouble only in the last 2 innings, when the Pirates put 2 men on base each time with 1 out. But he saved his shut-out with a brilliant exhibition of clutch pitching.

It was a blooper by Junior Gilliam to short right field that broke the hitless spell after 25 men had come to bat against Drott. The ball fell between second baseman Tony Taylor and right fielder Lee Walls, who missed getting his glove on it by only a foot or so.

That was the only hit the Dodgers got all afternoon. CHICAGO LOS ANGELES

Giants Win On Hit Batsman In Ninth

San Francisco (P) — Relief pitcher Larry Jackson hit Jimmy Davenport with a pitched ball with 2 out in the 9th inning Sunday forcing in the winning run as the San Francisco Giants beat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-4.

The battle before a capacity crowd of 22,736 featured a home run bout until the Giants scored the winning run in a fashion similar to Saturday's game.

Jackson lost both games, Saturday's when he walked in the winning run in the ninth with the bases loaded, and Sunday's when he hit the Giant 3rd baseman with the 1st pitch to him.

Cubs' Drott Spins 1-Hitter At Bums

Los Angeles (P)—Dick Drott lost his control and his no-hitter in the 7th inning Sunday but the Chicago Cubs had little trouble disposing of the Los Angeles Dodgers, 6-2, before a crowd of 19,025 at the Coliseum.

POINT BLANK

By Don Bryant
Sports Editor, The Star

According to Joe Brown, the fellow said: "You're kidding." At least that's what the Associated Press said Joe Brown said. Since I have no reason to be suspect of the AP, I am fully convinced that miracles do occur.

Because it was Dick Stuart who said, in disbelief, "You're kidding" when Brown informed him that Pittsburgh wanted Stuart—and that the Pirates wanted him AT Pittsburgh.

This is the same guy who 2 years ago became a salary holdout when the Buccos offered him his initial shot at the big leagues.

Last year it would have surprised no one if Stuart had said, "Well, it's about time—I've been ready, but you've been content to stay in the basement," under similar circumstances.

Big Stu may still feel he can jack up the Buccs—which is the positive attitude that marks a good athlete—but he's not talking about it. That's the improvement, controlling the babbling mouth, along with a slightly more developed interest in fielding.

Dick still carries a big bat—31 homers and 83 RBIs in the Coast League at call-up time—and he'll never stop getting kicks out of propelling baseballs over fences.

Just about everything in the Dick Stuart story has changed. When Stu arrives in Chicago to join the Pirates, he can be assured that Pittsburgh wanted him. This isn't a case of him pressuring the Buccs or talking his way abroad.

With the National League race about as tight as a Mansfield sweater, the Pirates are beginning to feel some pressure. After a fine start they've started to settle in the lower recesses of the standings.

Pittsburgh no doubt is hoping Stuart will add some punch to the lineup and the turnstiles as well. Dick may be just the guy to take the Bucco fans' minds off the losing ways of late.

It's doubtful Stu would have been called up if Pittsburgh would have continued to remain in the thick of the National League race. Just a couple weeks ago, general manager Joe Brown, visiting in Lincoln, told me there was "no chance" for Stuart to be called up before the end of the Salt Lake City season.

But that day the Pirates lost a doubleheader and things haven't been the same since.

With a world of talent, Stuart has been slow to mature. But now that he's gotten his big chance—with Pittsburgh calling on him in time of need—I'm pulling for the big guy to make the grade.

Incidentally, if he does make good as a major leaguer it will be a feather in Larry Shepard's cap. But at the moment, Shep is probably talking to himself.

Imagine fighting for a pennant and holding down a first-division spot—and then lose your leading power threat and RBI man.

That's the spot Larry is in at Salt Lake City. So it's congratulations and best wishes to Stuart and condolences and best wishes to Shepard.

One of the bright froth standouts Pete Elliott recruited during his brief stay at Nebraska was a boy named Skip Smith who hailed from Torrence, Calif.

Pete and his staff were really high on Smith. But Skip wasn't too keen on life in the midwest and returned to California. Elliott felt bad when Smith left NU, but he may feel even worse about the matter in the future.

Smith enrolled at UCLA after leaving NU and his advance notices are good. At the moment, he's a counselor at Frontier Ranch near Buena Vista, Colo., and he's slated to attend a Campus Crusade for Christ training course at Mound, Minn., later in the summer.

But in the fall, Skip is expected to bring smiles to the face of Red Sanders at UCLA. So impressive was the short-time Husker as a Bruin yearling that Dick Hyland of the Los Angeles Times recently gloved:

"Skipper Smith, it's my guess, will make Uclans forget Bob Davenport as a fullback."

That's a tall order in a spot where Davenport was rated quite a few notches above the journeymen fullbacks.

PS: Elliott may be sorry when Cal plays UCLA, but Bill Jennings may be sorry every Saturday. If Smith is as good as his LA press—or even half that good—he'd be welcome in the Husker camp where top-flight backfield depth is always a big problem.

Burdick Wins Kansas Race

Topeka, Kan. (P) — Bobby Burdick of Omaha, driving a 1958 Ford, blazed around the Kansas free fair track here Sunday to win the 100-mile Kansas international auto race for stock and sports cars.

Burdick, slowed by yellow flags all afternoon as half the field of 22 cars dropped out, circled the 200-laps in 1:51:03.36.

Stuart Hitless

San Diego, Calif. (P) — The Pacific Coast League's home-run leader, Dick Stuart, bowed out of the league Sunday without a hit during a doubleheader.

The Salt Lake slugger, who has been called up to the National League by Pittsburgh, failed to hit in six chances against San Diego.

He has hit 31 home runs to date and is batting .314.

Des Moines Hurler Avoids Early Shower

Chiefs Fall To Dodgers 6-2

By Don Bryant

Des Moines' Bob Ehrke came back from the brink of an early shower Sunday night to hand the Lincoln Chiefs a 6-2 defeat with a convincing 7-hitter at Sherman Field.

And the Des Moines chucker got a big lift from his playing manager, Roy Hartsfield.

Despite the loss, the Chiefs moved up in the standings when Albuquerque dealt Pueblo a double defeat. Lincoln and Pueblo are now deadlocked in 4th place.

The Chiefs had Ehrke in trouble right off the bat, but he worked out of a 1st inning jam after Jerry Stack had singled and Tony Washington walked.

Successive doubles by Stan Malec and Bud Pritchard gave Lincoln a 1-0 lead in the 2nd and Hartsfield had a relief pitcher pumping furiously in the bull pen. But again Ehrke halted the threat.

After the Des Moines 3rd, he was home free. A single and a pair of walks by Lincoln starter Olaf Nelson loaded the bases with 1 out. Then came fortune stepped in. Ron Fairly ripped a double play ball to Stack at 1st, but the Chiefs missed the lead runner. Instead of an inning-ending twin killing, 1 run scored. Nelson issued another walk and the bases were loaded again.

It was Hartsfield to the plate and a second later it was a settled issue. The Dodger skipper blasted a double to left center to clear the sacks and give Ehrke a 4-1 cushion.

Des Moines added 2 more off Nelson in the 4th before Ron Sheetz took over. Sheetz and Bill Dial shut out the Dodgers the rest of the way.

But Lincoln couldn't muster any serious challenge to Ehrke, who fanned 9 in picking up his 2nd victory.

The Chiefs managed another tally in the 5th on Pritchard's single off DM 3rd-baseman Hal Holderfield's ankle, a sacrifice, Julie Javier's single and Stack's sacrifice fly.

On the bright side for the Chiefs were some sparkling defensive eye-openers by 3rd baseman Gene Sheets, Pritchard and catcher Marcus Cobos.

Sheets turned in a couple of standouts gems, Cobos nailed a couple of Dodgers trying to steal—once when he called for a pitchout — and Pritchard robbed Holderfield of a base hit in the 9th with a leaping stab near 2nd base.

The same clubs tangle again Monday night at 8 p.m. Lefty ace Dick Lines, who has a 6-2 mark, is slated to pitch for the Basgalls. It will be Ladies Night at Sherman Field with the gals admitted at reduced rates.

Stock Car Drivers 'Strike'

... Races Cancelled

A dispute between the track operators and drivers Sunday night forced cancellation of the scheduled stock car races at Capitol Speedway.

The trouble reportedly arose over purse distributions to the drivers.

Dwayne Kushner, a Capitol Speedway official said that some 1,200 tickets had been sold when the dispute occurred and that all the money was refunded to the fans when the show was cancelled.

"Due to circumstances beyond the control of the management, the races were called off and the money refunded to patrons," Kushner said. "We decided to do this rather than present a poor show."

Kushner added that the fans "were courteous and very co-operative" and that the stock car track has "future plans that will be announced later."

There were only a few drivers involved, according to Kushner. He said that some of the drivers wanted to race but "we felt it would be a poor show."

When the dispute arose, some of the drivers "blocked the pit gate and prevented the others who wanted to race from going on the track," Kushner said.

AL Owners Will Be Queried On Shift Of Nats' Franchise

Washington (P)—Speculation over a shift of Washington's baseball team to another city revived Sunday.

Other American League clubs will be asked what they think of the Senators' situation. Calvin Griffith, president of Washington's last place team, said he would sound out club owners at a meeting today in Baltimore, where officials are gathering for the All-Star game Tuesday.

The Washington Post said in a copyrighted story Sunday that Griffith seeks permission to transfer the Senators' franchise to Minneapolis, Houston, Dallas or Toronto. The Sunday Star quoted him as saying some American League teams are "sick and tired" of playing before thousands of empty seats in Griffith Stadium.

Musso Killed, Fangio Retires In Grand Prix

Rheims, France (P) — Luigi Musso, the Italian auto racing ace who won the 1957 Grand Prix De France, died Sunday as the result of injuries suffered when his Ferrari crashed in the 10th lap of the 1958 renewal of the Grand Prix.

Mike Hawthorn of Britain gunned his red Ferrari to victory in the race that marked the retirement of world driving champion Juan Manuel Fangio of Argentina after he finished 4th in a Maserati.

"Here on this track just 10 years ago," said the 44-year-old Fangio, "I contested my first Grand Prix race. I think it would be a good opportunity to make today's race my last."

Through his victory, and by making the best lap time of Sunday, Hawthorn went into a tie with his British racing buddy, Stirling Moss, for the world driving championship. Moss finished 2nd Sunday on his Vanwall.

Turley, Friend Likely To Be On Mound In All-Star Tilt

Baltimore (AP) — Bob Turley of the New York Yankees was regarded as almost a sure thing to start for the American League in Tuesday's 25th All-Star game with Bob Friend of Pittsburgh the likely choice for the National League.

For the first time in many years none of the All-Star pitchers was slated to start Sunday's regular season games. Usually the manager's plans are turned upside down when he scans the Sunday boxscores and finds the men he expected to use had worked. A year ago Casey Stengel sounded off against the practice when he announced he would start Detroit's Jim Bunning at St. Louis.

"I would have possibly pitched Early Wynn," said the Yankee boss who has a steady job managing the American League team. "No All-Star pitcher should be permitted to start in the last (playing) day before the game. You pick your pitcher a week ahead and they pitch them a day ahead."

Whether Stengel's bleat had anything to do with it or not, the fact remains that of the 7 pitchers on his side only 2 had started as recently as Saturday. The relief men, of course, are used to working every day.

Stengel has been keeping quiet about his starter, except to hint strongly that it would be a righthander with only two left-handed batters in the National's starting lineup. The American, holding a 14-10 edge in the series, is a 13 to 10 favorite in this silver anniversary game.

Fred Haney, manager of the world champion Milwaukee Braves, probably was convinced Friend should be his National League starter after watching the Pittsburgh righthander hand his Braves their 5th straight defeat Saturday. The victory was Friend's 10th of the year, breaking his personal 5-game losing streak.

Like the National starting lineup, the American also is deep in righthanded batters. Of the 8 starters, not including the pitchers, only Nelson Fox, Chicago second baseman, and Mickey Mantle, the Yankee switcher, will bat left. If a lefty pitches Mick will change over.

Although Mantle has been having trouble hitting his stride this season, especially when he bats lefthanded, he has broken out of it in recent days. Saturday night he hit his 20th home run and is closing in on Boston's Jackie Jensen and Kansas City's Bob Cerv.

Cerv is the only starter who has been out of the lineup recently. He has been able to pinch hit and insists he will play despite a broken toe and an injured hand.

A sellout crowd of over 49,000 is expected to turn out for Baltimore's very first All-Star game. The seats that were available for general sale were snapped up long ago in 18 hours. Special arrangements have been made for the players to ride to the park in 50 convertibles in a parade through the downtown streets.

It will be the first test of the players' ability to select their own All-Star teams. The usual fan poll was junked this year by Commissioner Ford Frick and the active players, coaches and managers voted on the starting lineups, pitchers excepted. For the most part they followed 1958 performances, leaving off such long established stars as Ted Williams of Boston and Yogi Berra of New York. Both made the squad later when Stengel named the additional 17 men to fill out his 25-man club.

In a switch from the old values, the National appears to have the long ball slugger team and the American the right defense and pitching. However, the Americans do have the major league leader in homers and runs batted in with Jensen in right field. The game starts at 11 a.m. (CST) with full network (NBC) coverage on radio and television. All starters, except pitchers, must play at least the first 3 innings under the rules.

Red Sox Humble Yankees 10-4; Ted Leads Win With Homer, 2 Singles

3rd-Inning Rally Stuns AL Pacers

New York (AP) — Ted Williams cracked his 14th home run and added 2 singles, and Jackie Jensen drove in 3 runs with a double and 2 singles to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 10-4 victory over the New York Yankees Sunday.

Ike Delock, who has yet to taste defeat this season, gained his 7th triumph as the Red Sox snapped a 1-1 tie with a 5-run explosion in the 3rd inning.

Don Larsen was the victim of Boston's 4-hit attack that included singles by Williams and Lou Berberet and 2-baggers by Frank Malzone and Jensen. It was the tall righthander's 2nd defeat against 7 victories.

Delock throttled the Yankees with 4 hits through 7 innings but had to be rescued by Leo Kiely in the 8th when the Yankees broke through for 3 hits and a couple of runs.

Tigers' Bunning Stops Chisox 2-1

Chicago (AP) — Detroit right-hander Jim Bunning, the starting and winning pitcher in last year's All-Star game who was overlooked this season, whipped the Chicago White Sox 2-1, Sunday.

The victory was the 5th straight for the lanky 26-year-old Bunning who gave up 6 hits and had a shutout until the 9th. With 2 out in the 9th, Don Mueller singled and pinch batter Earl Torgeson doubled home Chicago's only run.

Russians May Release U.S. Airmen Soon

Moscow (AP)—Informed sources predicted Sunday night there will be a break within 24 hours in the case of the 9 U.S. airmen detained in the Soviet Union for the last 10 days.

This was taken to mean the Soviet government would release the 6 officers and 3 enlisted men, whose Air Force transport plane was forced down by jet fighters in Soviet Armenia.

The airmen probably will be transferred to U.S. custody at the Turkish or Iranian border.

A strong hint the airmen would be released soon came Saturday. The Soviet government announced then it has given consideration to a U.S. note expressing regret the plane flew over Soviet territory.

The United States requested last Monday that the airmen be freed.

New System Speeds Florida Missile Launchings

Cape Canaveral, Fla. (AP)—Technical crews Sunday night completed tests on an elaborate new electronic system that could triple the number of launchings handled at the nation's largest missile proving ground.

A spokesman said the entire operation at central control headquarters was revamped for the first time to make missile launchings and tracking more flexible and automatic.

Omaha Bond Foes Invited In New 'Plan'

Omaha (AP)—City Council President A. V. Sorensen has invited Omaha Plan opponents to join him in a "partnership for progress" campaign.

The plan, 13 bond issues to finance a series of civic improvements, was overwhelmingly defeated in an election last month.

Sorensen sent a memorandum to each of 3 anti-bond leaders, summing up a post-election discussion he held with them.

The meeting last week included Edward Mertz, Roy Harrop and Brian Reilly. They said they represented the Citizens Securities Council, the Omaha Citizens Council and the Association of Civic Clubs.

Sorensen outlined improvements made under the new city government, mostly of a fiscal nature.

He told Mertz, Harrop and Reilly they had come up with no solutions as to what to do about sewers and streets, parks and recreation. "But our discussion was mostly helpful," he said, "and I will transmit your thoughts to the City Council."

First Cruise In Years

Budapest, Hungary (AP)—For the first time in years the Hungarian government permitted a group of 150 tourists to leave for a Mediterranean cruise.

FIRE ALARMS
1:38 a.m. Mages Clothing Co. 12th & O. Surge in automatic alarm line. No fire.
5:59 a.m. 1230 K. Wiring set apartment on fire. Damage $350.
7:00 a.m. Rt. #8. Lawson Bird farm. Damage $5,000.
8:50 a.m. 1139 H. No fire.
7:30 p.m. Sharp building. Slight damage to dental equipment.

The crews worked on a 3-shift, 24-hour basis for 9 days to complete the job. During the period all missiles were grounded.

The central control building, some three miles from the launching sites, is the direction center for all missile tests conducted at the Cape.

The new system has been kept under tight security wraps, but it was reported that 3 missile countdowns now can be handled simultaneously where only one could be previously for all practical purposes.

Up to now, long delays often were encountered during a countdown and between launchings because the electronic directional equipment was limited.

The new operation features several control systems. Thus, if trouble develops in one, technicians could switch to an alternate system and continue a missile countdown without undue interruption.

In another instance, if one missile shoot was postponed, another could be heading toward space minutes later.

Theoretically, as many as 3 missiles now could be prepared for launching and fired at the same time without interference, but officials said this would be impractical for test purposes.

16 Panels

The installation, which included 16 new console panels to record a missile's performance in flight, reportedly cost more than a million dollars.

Central control also is the nerve center for the test range which consists of 12 island tracking stations and a string of picket ships that stretch 5,000 miles from the Florida mainland to ascension island in the south Atlantic.

The stations pick up telemetry signals from a missile as it roars by and forward the data to central control. Then the information is reduced to a form that will enable specialists to study and evaluate a missile's performance.

RIPE TOMATOES ALREADY

John Grevich, 11-year-old Lincoln Star carrier, claims some of the first ripe tomatoes of the season in Lincoln, a hybrid variety, they will be entered in the Hawthorne School garden project. Entomologists here said that ripe tomatoes this time of the year are unusual but not a record. John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Grevich of 134 So. 40th. (Star Photo.)

VISITOR CITES RUSS THIRST OF KNOWLEDGE

Washington (AP)—The United States commissioner of education, just returned from a study of the Soviet education system, said he was astonished at the total commitment the Russians are making to education.

Commissioner Lawrence G. Derthick, in a television interview, said: "There seems to be a tremendous thirst for knowledge. There is a great motivation on the part of the Russian people for education."

Salute to a LIFELINE

Our food industry is one of the wonders of the modern world. Before food in the field becomes fare on your table it must be harvested, inspected, processed, packaged and distributed. This is the lifeline of America.

This year the GMA reaches its 50th birthday. The newspaper industry salutes the Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc., for contributing so much to our high standard of living.

Probably nothing has changed more than the food field in giving so many new things to the American family. New products mean news. The best way to carry that news is in food ads and features appearing in the pages of your daily newspaper—another vital strand in the golden lifeline that nourishes the nation.

Grant Sees Wheat Crop Storage Lack

Grant, Neb. (AP) — Perkins County doesn't know where it is going to put the bumper wheat crop it is expecting.

Grant elevators had not received any new wheat but said they didn't have much storage space anyway. The big rush of new wheat is expected to start the middle of this week.

The manager of the co-op elevator, Cliff Gaddis, said the elevator is building a $300,000 addition. Space for 100,000 bushels of that is already spoken for, he said.

The elevator itself has a 780,000 bushel capacity now.

Floyd Steward of the Kellogg grain elevator said his firm could store only 40,000 bushels, a fraction of the amount expected. He said a lot of farmers are building on-the-farm storage bins and planning to store their own.

Fred McClenahan who manages the Producers Grain Co. elevator said the elevator has a capacity of 1,200,000 bushels. He declined to say how much room was still available.
